$8,500 for Tapestry Italian Opera in $40,320 Sale of Starts With 'Aida' Lehne Antiques

Highest Prices of the Dispersal Leopoldo Mugnone, Director, Reached With Seventeenth Century Fabric.

Yesterday afternoon's session in the Richard W. Lehne sale of English an-tiques at the Anderson Galleries brought the highest prices when a group of tap-estries and some fine pieces of Colonial furniture were brought under the hammer.

A fine late seventeenth century Brussels tapestry, 11 feet 8 inches wide by 14 feet 9 inches long, representing "Homage to Minerva," fetched the highest price of the sale, $5,500 from L. F. Rothschild. An Oudenarde tapestry, seventeenth century, with design by Teniers representing "Al Fresco Pleasures," went to E. Collins, agent, for $3,600. A seventeenth century Brussels tapestry depicting "Venus and Adonis" was bought by H. F. Dawson for $2,000.

The orchestra did some excellent playing and the chorus some good singing. The excellence of both were principally in phrasinns, nuance, well graded dynamics, effective treatments of rhetorical pauses and general clarity. Mr. Mugnone knows every bar of "Aida" and knows it as an artist. His methods are spectacular, but possibly they would be less so in circumstances not so trying as those of last evening. He is unquestionably an admirable operatic conductor. It seemed a pity to see him struggling with adversity.

"MARY STUART" FOR CHARITY. Young Women's Club.

The performance of "Mary Stuart" at the Ritz Theatre last night, with Miss Clare Eames in the title role, took the form of a benefit under the auspices of the Catholic Young Women's Chib. Most of the seats and all the boxes were sold at premiums to friends of the club, the advance going to aid its welfare work. The reccipts were increased materially by the Misses Pauline Bourne, Ada Heinze, Beatrix Post, Helen Littleton, Pauline Bourne and O'Gorman.
